The DIWALI CHECKLIST

Done List

Let's Check Our Diwali Done List

Did we clean our home?

- Yes, we did!

Did we buy new clothes?

- Yes, we did!

Did we buy sweets, chocolates, and gifts for ourselves, our friends, and our family?

- Yes, we did!

But wait...

What did we really miss on?

Let's Shine From Inside

Diwali is over

Lights, sweets, and celebrations have filled our homes!

But now, it's time to look within and ask ourselves:

What did I learn this Diwali?

Did I make someone else happy too?

Hmm... not really!

Looks like this year, we forgot the most important part -

Sharing Our Happiness With Others!

Let's fill our hearts with kindness and care. Let's keep the Diwali glow alive - not just in lamps, but in our hearts!

"Because the brightest light is the one in our hearts!"

ACTIVITY BOX – “Draw your favorite Diwali moment”

Let's Keep the Light of Goodness Glowing

Fun Activity Time! – Diwali That Never Ends

Choose the items that you would like to share...

Let's Share the Joy!

Choose with whom would you like to share with:

- The milkman who brings milk every morning
- The domestic helper who keeps your home clean
- The sweeper who keeps your society neat and tidy
- The policeman who keeps us safe
- The watchman who guards your building
- The vegetable or fruit seller who visits daily
- The postman who delivers letters and parcels
- The driver or rickshaw uncle who helps you travel
- The school helper or peon who helps teachers and students

Let's Keep the Light of Goodness Glowing

Let's Care for Our Little Furry Friends!

Shouldn't the joy of Diwali be for everyone, not just for us?

Often after Diwali, birds or animals get scared or hurt because of crackers. If you find any injured ones, here's how you can help:

- Give them a quiet and safe place to rest.
- Offer clean water and some food like grains or biscuits.
- Tell your parents so they can call an animal doctor or NGO.
- Be gentle - never touch them roughly or try to play with them.

Remember – kindness is the best light we can spread!

It was the morning after Diwali. The streets were quiet, but tiny bits of crackers and paper still lay scattered everywhere.

Arhan stepped out of his house, he heard a soft “chirp... chirp... Curious, he looked closer - a small brown sparrow was sitting on the ground, trembling. One of its wings looked hurt.

Arhan gently called out to his mom. “Ma, look! This poor bird is hurt. What should we do?” His mother smiled and said, “Let’s help it, but remember, we must be gentle.

Arhan brought a small cardboard box, placed some cotton inside, and carefully lifted the sparrow using a towel. He gave it a few drops of water and some rice grains.

They gave shelter to the little bird to in their home. The next day, when the bird was healthy again, they brought it out in the garden for release.

Arhan opened the box, and the sparrow fluttered its wings and flew high into the blue sky - singing loudly as if to say, “Thank you, Arhan!”

That day, Arhan realized that true happiness comes from being kind and making others happy.

Compassion :
it's something
we do every day.

Maze time:

Help the little Birdie find its cozy nest –
Show care and kindness along the way!

SOLUTION

Diwali is over, but Mira's house still sparkles with lights, sweets, celebrations, colors & laughter! Boxes of laddoos, barfis, chocolates, and biscuits were everywhere.

Mira giggled as she opened one box after another. "So many sweets! I can eat one every day!" she said.

But after two days, she began to feel bored.

"It's no fun eating alone," she sighed.

That's when her mother entered the room and said softly, "You know, there are many people outside who didn't get to celebrate Diwali. Wouldn't it be nice if you shared some sweets with them?" Mira thought for a moment - and her eyes sparkled. "Yes! Let's do it!"

She packed small boxes with gifts, sweets & chocolates, tied them with ribbons, and wrote small notes that said “Happy Post-Diwali with Love!”

Then she along with her mother went around to the watchman, the garbage collector, the security uncle, and even a nearby orphanage. Everywhere she went, people smiled.

One little boy at the orphanage said, “No one ever brings us sweets after Diwali!”. Mira felt her heart fill with happiness. That night, she told her mother,

“I think the sweets tasted sweeter when I shared them.”

What Param Gurudev says...

Let us celebrate this New Year as a
Sankalp Year

Sankalp means a Promise or a Strong Decision. It is when you make up your mind and say

"Yes! I will surely do this."

Resolutions for the "Sankalp Year"

I will save water-

I'll use only two buckets of water in a day and not waste it.

2

I will not waste food -
I'll take only as much food
as I can eat and never throw it away.

3

I will not drive fast -
I'll drive carefully so no living being gets hurt.

I will not use plastic bags -
I'll protect nature and animals by saying no to plastic.
